Our Commitment

SISU Wellness Ltd, trading as SISU Health, is committed to protecting the environment, reducing the environmental impact of its operations and supporting the NHS transition towards net zero healthcare.

As a digital health organisation with a predominantly remote-working model, we aim to apply environmental practices that are proportionate to the nature and scale of our activities.

Our approach

Our principal environmental priorities include:

- Reducing unnecessary employee, operational and patient travel;
- Using digital records and communications to minimise paper and physical resources;
- Improving the energy efficiency and operating life of SISU Health Stations;
- Considering environmental performance when selecting and managing relevant suppliers;
- Reducing waste and supporting responsible reuse, recycling and end-of-life management;
- Considering environmental impacts within product development, manufacturing, logistics and deployment decisions; and
- Monitoring our environmental performance and improving the quality of our carbon data over time.

Carbon reduction

SISU Health is committed to achieving net zero greenhouse-gas emissions no later than 2050 and to developing its measurement, reporting and reduction programme in line with applicable NHS and government supplier requirements.

Our current carbon-reduction priorities include:

1. Reducing travel and logistics emissions through remote delivery, route planning and appropriate use of lower-emission transport;
2. Improving the energy efficiency, durability, repairability and recyclability of our technology;
3. Engaging relevant suppliers on carbon measurement and environmental performance;
4. Reducing paper, packaging and avoidable waste; and
5. Periodically reviewing progress and establishing further evidence-based reduction targets as the quality of our baseline information develops.

We will maintain a separate Carbon Reduction Plan containing our emissions baseline, current reporting data, reduction measures, net-zero commitment and progress.
